Celtic Cross

Friday, 6 November 2026 at 12:00:01 pm AEDT

Astrology snapshot · preserved session moment

Session astrology moment (UTC): 2026-11-06T01:00:00.188Z

Selected/calculated Sun: not supplied

Natal Moon: not supplied

Rising: not supplied

Chinese: not supplied

Natal sidereal Sun (approximate): not supplied

Natal sidereal Moon (approximate): not supplied

Western tropical sky

Sun: Scorpio 13°37

Moon: Libra 5°37

Mercury: Scorpio 10°19

Venus: Libra 24°09

Mars: Leo 21°07

Jupiter: Leo 24°54

Saturn: Aries 8°58

Uranus: Gemini 4°29

Neptune: Aries 1°59

Pluto: Aquarius 3°10

Approximate current sidereal Sun: Libra 19°23

Approximate current sidereal Moon: Virgo 11°23

Moon: waning, approximately 11% illuminated.

Aspects: Venus / Jupiter sextile (0.75 degree orb); Moon / Uranus trine (1.14 degree orb); Neptune / Pluto sextile (1.19 degree orb); Uranus / Pluto trine (1.32 degree orb)

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Your current sky offers a symbolic lens before the cards.

Provenance: engine: Astronomy Engine; engineAssetSHA256: 6615b92711c2e4a5760e8761a2047f18c0729ab81de8879fa47ae71 e52646d2e; adapter: RESONATE astrology 2; coordinates: Apparent geocentric ecliptic longitude of date; sidereal: Approximate Lahiri: 23.8531 degrees at J2000 + 0.013969 degrees/year; calendar: Intl Chinese calendar, date-based lunar-year boundary; year-only values are estimates; timeZoneRules: Runtime Intl/IANA historical rules; repeated birth times require explicit choice; observationTimeZone: Australia/Sydney; lunarIllumination: Approximation from Sun-Moon elongation, rounded to percent; birthTimeResolution: not supplied

Sidereal conversion is approximate, not a full Vedic chart. Astrology is a symbolic interpretation, not a scientifically reliable prediction. It does not control Oracle, dice or tarot draws.

Present Situation · Ace of Swords, reversed

Present Situation

Original Card · I · Ace of Swords, reversed

Present Situation

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Air · Swords

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Air · Swords · Air

Number: 1

One begins a cycle with a seed, focus or initial act. In Ace of Swords, consider how this relates to clarity.

Confusion Harshness Unclear Thinking

Position: Present Situation - Ace of Swords reversed. Here, confusion, harshness, unclear thinking is a lens for the central situation as you experience it now. Identify one concrete example in your situation and consider how it shapes your response.

An idea may be incomplete or language may be sharper than the situation requires. Revisit the facts and clarify your intention before delivering a judgement.

Looking closer: A hand raises a crowned sword above mountains, joining clear thought with responsibility.

Clarifier 1 · IX · Nine of Pentacles

Astrology: Earth · Pentacles · Earth

Number: 9

Nine draws experience toward maturity while asking what is still needed. In Nine of Pentacles, consider how this relates to independence.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Recognise the independence or comfort that patient work has made possible. Enjoy it deliberately and maintain the boundaries and relationships that help your life feel chosen rather than merely productive.

Looking closer: A figure stands in a cultivated garden with a falcon and nine pentacles among the vines.

The conversation between them: Ace of Swords, reversed asks about confusion and harshness, while Nine of Pentacles brings independence and enjoyment into the same question. Read this as a possible shift in emphasis, not a certainty.

What these cards mean together

Ace of Swords, reversed provides the foundation of confusion and harshness. Nine of Pentacles brings independence and enjoyment into the picture. In the Present Situation position, consider how these themes interact: what might become possible when they are held together, and which practical response resonates with your situation? This is a perspective for reflection, not a fixed prediction.

Tao / Wu Wei · Ace of Swords

A practice of unforced attention with Ace of Swords: What needs to be stated clearly, and how can I say it responsibly?

Jungian interpretation · Ace of Swords

Psychological lens: Insight can separate a tangled problem into workable parts, provided certainty remains open to correction.

Tao / Wu Wei · Nine of Pentacles

A practice of unforced attention with Nine of Pentacles: How can I enjoy what I have built without making achievement my only source of worth?

Jungian interpretation · Nine of Pentacles

Psychological lens: Autonomy includes the freedom to receive pleasure and connection, not just the ability to function alone.

Crossing Challenge · Four of Cups

Crossing Challenge

Original Card · IV · Four of Cups

Crossing Challenge

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Water · Cups

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Water · Cups · Water

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Number: 4

Four creates structure and stability while asking how much flexibility it allows. In Four of Cups, consider how this relates to contemplation.

Contemplation Reassessment Disengagement

Position: Crossing Challenge - Four of Cups. The tension to explore is contemplation, reassessment, disengagement. Ask where this pattern becomes difficult and what small adjustment would help you meet it differently.

A pause in interest may be asking you to examine what you actually want. Rest from automatic choices, while remaining willing to notice an offer that differs from your expectations.

Looking closer: A seated figure faces three cups while a fourth is offered from a cloud.

Tao / Wu Wei · Four of Cups

A practice of unforced attention with Four of Cups: What am I overlooking because it does not resemble the offer I expected?

Jungian interpretation · Four of Cups

Psychological lens: Turning inward can clarify desire, but habitual detachment can also protect it from being tested.

Foundation · Three of Pentacles, reversed

Foundation

Original Card · III · Three of Pentacles, reversed

Foundation

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Earth · Pentacles

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Earth · Pentacles · Earth

Number: 3

Three develops expression, growth and the effects of working together. In Three of Pentacles, consider how this relates to craft.

Poor Coordination Undervalued Work Skill Gaps

Position: Foundation - Three of Pentacles reversed. Here, poor coordination, undervalued work, skill gaps is a lens for the deeper roots beneath the situation. Identify one concrete example in your situation and consider how it shapes your response.

The work may be suffering from unclear roles or dismissed expertise. Agree on a common standard and address a specific skill or communication gap before assigning blame.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Looking closer: A craftsperson discusses a building with two figures who hold a plan.

Tao / Wu Wei · Three of Pentacles

A practice of unforced attention with Three of Pentacles: Whose knowledge would improve this work if I made room for it?

Jungian interpretation · Three of Pentacles

Psychological lens: Competence can grow through recognition of interdependence rather than an insistence on self-sufficiency.

Recent Past · The Sun

Recent Past

Original Card · XIX · The Sun

Recent Past

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Sun

SKY AT THIS READING Sun is at 13° 37 Scorpio

Astrology: Sun · Fire

Number: 19

Nineteen brings experience into the light of conscious appreciation and shared vitality. In The Sun, consider how this relates to vitality.

Vitality Joy Clarity

Position: Recent Past - The Sun. This may describe how vitality, joy, clarity shaped the path to your current situation. Consider what you want to carry forward and what belongs to an earlier chapter.

Clarity, warmth or a shared success can restore your energy. Let yourself enjoy what is working and express it plainly; confidence is strongest when it leaves room for other people to shine too.

Looking closer: A child rides a white horse beneath a bright sun, with sunflowers behind a wall. The scene joins openness, growth and uncomplicated vitality.

Clarifier 1 · Kn · Knight of Swords

Astrology: Air · Swords · Air

Court rank: Knight

Knight is a court role, not a numbered pip card: an active way of pursuing the suit's concerns, with both gifts and excesses. It can describe an approach or quality in anyone, without prescribing age or gender.

A clear aim may call for a direct response. Act decisively where the facts support it, while leaving enough attention for consequences, timing and information that challenges your initial view.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Looking closer: A rider charges forward with a raised sword under a turbulent sky.

The conversation between them: The Sun asks about vitality and joy, while Knight of Swords brings directness and resolve into the same question. Read this as a possible shift in emphasis, not a certainty.

What these cards mean together

The Sun provides the foundation of vitality and joy. Knight of Swords brings directness and resolve into the picture. In the Recent Past position, consider how these themes interact: what might become possible when they are held together, and which practical response resonates with your situation? This is a perspective for reflection, not a fixed prediction.

Tao / Wu Wei · The Sun

A practice of unforced attention with The Sun: What can I enjoy openly without needing to prove or perfect it?

Jungian interpretation · The Sun

Psychological lens: A more spontaneous self can emerge when it feels safe to be visible. Confidence becomes generous when recognition is shared rather than hoarded.

Tao / Wu Wei · Knight of Swords

A practice of unforced attention with Knight of Swords: Where do I need decisiveness, and where am I confusing urgency with certainty?

Jungian interpretation · Knight of Swords

Psychological lens: The wish to cut through difficulty can become rigid when thought loses contact with feeling and circumstance.

Conscious Focus · The World, reversed

Conscious Focus

Original Card · XXI · The World, reversed

Conscious Focus

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Saturn

SKY AT THIS READING Saturn is at 8° 58 Aries

Astrology: Saturn · Earth

Number: 21

Twenty-one gathers the cycle into a completion that can support further participation. In The World, consider how this relates to completion.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Unfinished Work Delayed Closure Fragmentation

Position: Conscious Focus - The World reversed. Here, unfinished work, delayed closure, fragmentation is a lens for your hopes, intentions or conscious priorities. Identify one concrete example in your situation and consider how it shapes your response.

Something remains to be integrated before a chapter can close. Identify the unfinished task or unacknowledged feeling rather than chasing a new beginning that leaves the same loose end behind.

Looking closer: A dancing figure stands within a wreath, surrounded by four creatures. Movement inside an enclosing form suggests both wholeness and continuing life.

Clarifier 1 · XII · The Hanged Man, reversed

Astrology: Water · Water

Number: 12

Twelve marks a pause in the usual sequence and the possibility of a changed perspective. In The Hanged Man, consider how this relates to perspective.

Waiting may have lost its purpose, or a sacrifice may no longer serve anyone. Name what you are postponing and what would make the pause a conscious choice again.

Looking closer: A figure hangs by one foot with a calm face and a halo. Physical inversion becomes an image of changed perception rather than defeat.

The conversation between them: The World, reversed asks about unfinished work and delayed closure, while The Hanged Man, reversed brings stagnation and resistance into the same question. Read this as a possible shift in emphasis, not a certainty.

Clarifier 2 · VI · The Lovers, reversed

Astrology: Gemini · Air

Number: 6

Six explores adjustment, relationship and a more workable harmony. In The Lovers, consider how this relates to alignment.

Attraction, duty and personal values may be pulling in different directions. Name the disagreement before promising unity, and avoid sacrificing your voice merely to keep a connection intact.

Looking closer: Two figures beneath an angel stand before distinct trees. Their openness connects relationship with conscience, vulnerability and a freely made choice.

The conversation between them: The World, reversed asks about unfinished work and delayed closure, while The Lovers, reversed brings misalignment and division into the same question. Read this as a possible shift in emphasis, not a certainty.

What these cards mean together

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

The World, reversed provides the foundation of unfinished work and delayed closure. The Hanged Man, reversed brings stagnation and resistance into the picture; The Lovers, reversed brings misalignment and division into the picture. In the Conscious Focus position, consider how these themes interact: what might become possible when they are held together, and which practical response resonates with your situation? This is a perspective for reflection, not a fixed prediction.

Tao / Wu Wei · The World

A practice of unforced attention with The World: What needs acknowledgement or completion before I move into the next chapter?

Jungian interpretation · The World

Psychological lens: Wholeness is the capacity to hold different parts of experience in relationship. Completion can be celebrated without expecting the self to become finished forever.

Tao / Wu Wei · The Hanged Man

A practice of unforced attention with The Hanged Man: What becomes visible when I stop insisting on my usual point of view?

Jungian interpretation · The Hanged Man

Psychological lens: An old way of solving problems can temporarily lose its power. Tolerating that uncertainty allows a different relationship to the situation to emerge.

Tao / Wu Wei · The Lovers

A practice of unforced attention with The Lovers: What choice would bring my relationships and my values into closer agreement?

Jungian interpretation · The Lovers

Psychological lens: Relationship brings disowned needs and desires into view. Integration asks for conscious choice rather than expecting another person to complete the self.

Near Future · Two of Cups, reversed

Near Future

Original Card · II · Two of Cups, reversed

Near Future

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Water · Cups

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Water · Cups · Water

Number: 2

Two brings relationship, polarity and the need to consider another position. In Two of Cups, consider how this relates to mutuality.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Imbalance Disconnection Broken Trust

Position: Near Future - Two of Cups reversed. This suggests a possible development involving imbalance, disconnection, broken trust. Notice which present choices encourage that direction and which could change it; this is a possibility, not a fixed result.

A relationship or agreement may be unequal or out of tune. Name the difference and assess whether repair is mutual rather than assuming one person can restore the connection alone.

Looking closer: Two people exchange cups beneath a winged lion and entwined staff.

Tao / Wu Wei · Two of Cups

A practice of unforced attention with Two of Cups: What would a more reciprocal exchange look like here?

Jungian interpretation · Two of Cups

Psychological lens: Meeting another person requires recognising both connection and separateness.

Your Approach · Five of Cups, reversed

Your Approach

Original Card · V · Five of Cups, reversed

Your Approach

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Water · Cups

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Water · Cups · Water

Number: 5

Five disrupts an established pattern and invites a response to change. In Five of Cups, consider how this relates to grief.

Acceptance Lingering Regret Reconnection

Position: Your Approach - Five of Cups reversed. Here, acceptance, lingering regret, reconnection is a lens for the stance you bring and the choices within your control. Identify one concrete example in your situation and consider how it shapes your response.

Acceptance may be growing, or regret may be repeating without bringing new understanding. Reach toward the support that remains and let moving forward include, rather than erase, the loss.

Looking closer: A cloaked figure looks at three spilled cups while two stand behind, with a bridge nearby.

Tao / Wu Wei · Five of Cups

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

A practice of unforced attention with Five of Cups: What deserves mourning, and what support have I not yet turned toward?

Jungian interpretation · Five of Cups

Psychological lens: Attention can become fixed on absence. Integration makes room for loss within a larger life.

Surrounding Influences · Six of Cups, reversed

Surrounding Influences

Original Card · VI · Six of Cups, reversed

Surrounding Influences

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Water · Cups

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Water · Cups · Water

Number: 6

Six explores adjustment, relationship and a more workable harmony. In Six of Cups, consider how this relates to memory.

Idealised Past Growing Beyond Old Patterns

Position: Surrounding Influences - Six of Cups reversed. Here, idealised past, growing beyond, old patterns is a lens for the environment and outside influences around you. Identify one concrete example in your situation and consider how it shapes your response.

Nostalgia may be editing the past or an old role may no longer fit. Keep what was nourishing without asking the present to recreate an earlier chapter exactly.

Looking closer: A child offers a flower-filled cup to another figure in a sheltered courtyard.

Tao / Wu Wei · Six of Cups

A practice of unforced attention with Six of Cups: What from my past nourishes me now, and what can remain in the past?

Jungian interpretation · Six of Cups

Psychological lens: Earlier experiences shape expectations of care. Revisiting them consciously can loosen automatic repetition.

Hopes and Fears · Five of Pentacles, reversed

Hopes and Fears

Original Card · V · Five of Pentacles, reversed

Hopes and Fears

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Earth · Pentacles

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Earth · Pentacles · Earth

Number: 5

Five disrupts an established pattern and invites a response to change. In Five of Pentacles, consider how this relates to hardship.

Help Recovery Lingering Scarcity

Position: Hopes and Fears - Five of Pentacles reversed. Here, help, recovery, lingering scarcity is a lens for the desires and worries colouring your view. Identify one concrete example in your situation and consider how it shapes your response.

Support or recovery may be becoming available, though a sense of exclusion can persist. Accept a specific offer and let renewed stability develop gradually.

Looking closer: Two figures pass through snow beneath an illuminated window bearing five pentacles.

Tao / Wu Wei · Five of Pentacles

A practice of unforced attention with Five of Pentacles: What help could I ask for instead of assuming I have to cope alone?

Jungian interpretation · Five of Pentacles

Psychological lens: Feeling excluded can make support difficult to recognise or receive. Need does not erase dignity or belonging.

Potential Outcome · Two of Wands, reversed

Potential Outcome

Original Card · II · Two of Wands, reversed

Potential Outcome

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Fire · Wands

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Fire · Wands · Fire

Number: 2

Two brings relationship, polarity and the need to consider another position. In Two of Wands, consider how this relates to planning.

Fear of Expansion Indecision Small Horizons

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Position: Potential Outcome - Two of Wands reversed. Here, fear of expansion, indecision, small horizons is a lens for a possible outcome if the present pattern continues, with room for your choices. Identify one concrete example in your situation and consider how it shapes your response.

You may be holding possibilities without choosing, or shrinking a wish to avoid uncertainty. Name the risk you can accept and the information you still need.

Looking closer: A figure holds a globe between two wands while surveying distant land and sea.

Tao / Wu Wei · Two of Wands

A practice of unforced attention with Two of Wands: Which possibility am I ready to plan for rather than only imagine?

Jungian interpretation · Two of Wands

Psychological lens: A larger imagined life can guide development when it remains in dialogue with present reality.

The Golden Thread

The Golden Thread follows 14 revealed cards across this reading, including every clarifier. 10 cards came up reversed and are read through their reversed meaning.

Present Situation Ace of Swords, reversed + Nine of Pentacles

The original Ace of Swords, reversed highlights confusion and harshness; Nine of Pentacles introduces independence and enjoyment. Consider whether these energies support one another or ask for balance.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Ace of Swords, reversed (Air · Swords) meets Nine of Pentacles (Earth · Pentacles). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Crossing Challenge Four of Cups

The foundation is contemplation and reassessment; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Four of Cups (Water · Cups). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Foundation Three of Pentacles, reversed

The foundation is poor coordination and undervalued work; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Three of Pentacles, reversed (Earth · Pentacles). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Recent Past The Sun + Knight of Swords

The original The Sun highlights vitality and joy; Knight of Swords introduces directness and resolve. Consider whether these energies support one another or ask for balance.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are The Sun (Sun) meets Knight of Swords (Air · Swords). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Conscious Focus The World, reversed + The Hanged Man, reversed + The Lovers, reversed

The original The World, reversed highlights unfinished work and delayed closure; The Hanged Man, reversed introduces stagnation and resistance; The Lovers, reversed introduces misalignment and division. Consider whether these energies support one another or ask for balance.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are The World, reversed (Saturn) meets The Hanged Man, reversed (Water) meets The Lovers, reversed (Gemini). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Near Future Two of Cups, reversed

The foundation is imbalance and disconnection; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Two of Cups, reversed (Water · Cups). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Your Approach Five of Cups, reversed

The foundation is acceptance and lingering regret; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Five of Cups, reversed (Water · Cups). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Surrounding Influences Six of Cups, reversed

The foundation is idealised past and growing beyond; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Six of Cups, reversed (Water · Cups). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Hopes and Fears Five of Pentacles, reversed

The foundation is help and recovery; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Five of Pentacles, reversed (Earth · Pentacles). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Potential Outcome Two of Wands, reversed

The foundation is fear of expansion and indecision; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Two of Wands, reversed (Fire · Wands). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

FROM CARD TO CARD

The reading begins with Ace of Swords, reversed in Present Situation and moves toward Two of Wands, reversed in Potential Outcome.

Crossing Challenge · Four of Cups. Following Ace of Swords, Four of Cups may draw your attention toward contemplation.

Foundation · Three of Pentacles, reversed. Following Four of Cups, Three of Pentacles may draw your attention toward poor coordination.

Recent Past · The Sun. Following Three of Pentacles, The Sun may draw your attention toward vitality.

Conscious Focus · The World, reversed. Following The Sun, The World may draw your attention toward unfinished work.

Near Future · Two of Cups, reversed. Following The World, Two of Cups may draw your attention toward imbalance.

Your Approach · Five of Cups, reversed. Following Two of Cups, Five of Cups may draw your attention toward acceptance.

Surrounding Influences · Six of Cups, reversed. Following Five of Cups, Six of Cups may draw your attention toward idealised past.

Hopes and Fears · Five of Pentacles, reversed. Following Six of Cups, Five of Pentacles may draw your attention toward help.

Potential Outcome · Two of Wands, reversed. Following Five of Pentacles, Two of Wands may draw your attention toward fear of expansion.

The card-to-card movement is the heart of this reading: Ace of Swords, reversed opens the question, and Two of Wands, reversed shows where that pattern may be heading if the present choices continue.

Keep the part that speaks to your lived situation, and use the cards as a prompt for reflection and choice.

THE OVERALL INVITATION Across these cards, confusion, harshness, unclear thinking, independence form the central pattern. Which part speaks to your present circumstances, and what choice might help you respond? This is a perspective, not a fixed prediction.

Numbers through your reading

Ace of Swords (1) · Nine of Pentacles (9) · Four of Cups (4) · Three of Pentacles (3) · The Sun (19) · Knight of Swords (Knight) · The World (21) · The Hanged Man (12) · The Lovers (6) · Two of Cups (2) · Five of Cups (5) · Six of Cups (6) · Five of Pentacles (5) · Two of Wands (2) . Their numbered cards sum to 95 , reducing to 5 . No opening dice were rolled for this reading.

Repeated tarot numbers: 6, 2, 5. Notice whether the cards express a shared theme through different suits.

These numbers are symbolic prompts, not guarantees. Notice whether any patterns resonate with numbers personally meaningful to you.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Take what resonates, and leave the rest.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.