Past · Present · Future

Friday, 6 November 2026 at 12:00:00 pm AEDT

Astrology snapshot · preserved session moment

Session astrology moment (UTC): 2026-11-06T01:00:00.175Z

Selected/calculated Sun: not supplied

Natal Moon: not supplied

Rising: not supplied

Chinese: not supplied

Natal sidereal Sun (approximate): not supplied

Natal sidereal Moon (approximate): not supplied

Western tropical sky

Sun: Scorpio 13°37

Moon: Libra 5°37

Mercury: Scorpio 10°19

Venus: Libra 24°09

Mars: Leo 21°07

Jupiter: Leo 24°54

Saturn: Aries 8°58

Uranus: Gemini 4°29

Neptune: Aries 1°59

Pluto: Aquarius 3°10

Approximate current sidereal Sun: Libra 19°23

Approximate current sidereal Moon: Virgo 11°23

Moon: waning, approximately 11% illuminated.

Aspects: Venus / Jupiter sextile (0.75 degree orb); Moon / Uranus trine (1.14 degree orb); Neptune / Pluto sextile (1.19 degree orb); Uranus / Pluto trine (1.32 degree orb)

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Your current sky offers a symbolic lens before the cards.

Provenance: engine: Astronomy Engine; engineAssetSHA256: 6615b92711c2e4a5760e8761a2047f18c0729ab81de8879fa47ae71 e52646d2e; adapter: RESONATE astrology 2; coordinates: Apparent geocentric ecliptic longitude of date; sidereal: Approximate Lahiri: 23.8531 degrees at J2000 + 0.013969 degrees/year; calendar: Intl Chinese calendar, date-based lunar-year boundary; year-only values are estimates; timeZoneRules: Runtime Intl/IANA historical rules; repeated birth times require explicit choice; observationTimeZone: Australia/Sydney; lunarIllumination: Approximation from Sun-Moon elongation, rounded to percent; birthTimeResolution: not supplied

Sidereal conversion is approximate, not a full Vedic chart. Astrology is a symbolic interpretation, not a scientifically reliable prediction. It does not control Oracle, dice or tarot draws.

Past · Two of Cups

Past

Original Card · II · Two of Cups

Past

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Water · Cups

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Water · Cups · Water

Number: 2

Two brings relationship, polarity and the need to consider another position. In Two of Cups, consider how this relates to mutuality.

Mutuality Connection Agreement

Position: Past - Two of Cups. This may describe how mutuality, connection, agreement shaped the path to your current situation. Consider what you want to carry forward and what belongs to an earlier chapter.

A connection can deepen through reciprocal attention and honest exchange. Ask what each person is offering freely and make the agreement explicit instead of relying on an imagined harmony.

Looking closer: Two people exchange cups beneath a winged lion and entwined staff.

Clarifier 1 · I · The Magician, reversed

Astrology: Mercury · Air

Number: 1

One is the first point of definition: identity, initiative and directed force. It is the movement from possibility into a chosen line of action.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Reversed, skill may be scattered, misdirected or used to control rather than create. It can also show ability that is present but not yet trusted. The task is to bring intention, ethics and action back into alignment. Surrounding cards can help distinguish between a temporary lack of confidence, scattered energy, and a situation where motives deserve a closer look.

Looking closer: Notice the red outer garment, white clothing and tools on the table. Passion and deliberate effort meet a question of honest purpose: what resources can be used well?

The conversation between them: Two of Cups asks about mutuality and connection, while The Magician, reversed brings manipulation and scattered will into the same question. Read this as a possible shift in emphasis, not a certainty.

Clarifier 2 · IX · Nine of Swords, reversed

Astrology: Air · Swords · Air

Number: 9

Nine draws experience toward maturity while asking what is still needed. In Nine of Swords, consider how this relates to worry.

A burden may be easing, or you may be hiding how difficult things feel. Reach for support and judge progress in manageable steps rather than expecting distress to disappear immediately.

Looking closer: A figure sits upright in bed with hands over the face beneath nine swords.

The conversation between them: Two of Cups asks about mutuality and connection, while Nine of Swords, reversed brings support and easing anxiety into the same question. Read this as a possible shift in emphasis, not a certainty.

What these cards mean together

Two of Cups provides the foundation of mutuality and connection. The Magician, reversed brings manipulation and scattered will into the picture; Nine of Swords, reversed brings support and easing anxiety into the picture. In the Past position, consider how these themes interact: what might become possible when they are held together, and which practical response resonates with your situation? This is a perspective for reflection, not a fixed prediction.

Tao / Wu Wei · Two of Cups

A practice of unforced attention with Two of Cups: What would a more reciprocal exchange look like here?

Jungian interpretation · Two of Cups

Psychological lens: Meeting another person requires recognising both connection and separateness.

Tao / Wu Wei · The Magician

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Wu Wei: effective action is not always greater effort. The Magician can ask where precise, well-timed action would achieve more than pushing harder in every direction.

Jungian interpretation · The Magician

Jungian lens: the Conscious Ego and Alchemist. The Magician symbolises the developing capacity to direct attention, combine inner resources and act intentionally. In shadow, cleverness can become self-deception or manipulation.

Tao / Wu Wei · Nine of Swords

A practice of unforced attention with Nine of Swords: What fear needs compassionate attention rather than another round of private argument?

Jungian interpretation · Nine of Swords

Psychological lens: Thought can intensify distress when it tries to solve uncertainty by rehearsing every possible threat.

Present · Queen of Swords, reversed

Present

Original Card · Q · Queen of Swords, reversed

Present

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Air · Swords

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Air · Swords · Air

Court rank: Queen

Queen is a court role, not a numbered pip card: a receptive, sustaining expression of the suit's qualities. It can describe an approach or quality in anyone, without prescribing age or gender.

Harsh Judgement Bitterness Emotional Distance

Position: Present - Queen of Swords reversed. Here, harsh judgement, bitterness, emotional distance is a lens for what is active now and how you can respond. Identify one concrete example in your situation and consider how it shapes your response.

Past hurt may be sharpening judgement or creating distance where dialogue is possible. Reconsider the tone without abandoning the boundary that protects your integrity.

Looking closer: A queen holds an upright sword and extends an open hand from her throne.

Tao / Wu Wei · Queen of Swords

A practice of unforced attention with Queen of Swords: How can I be clear and fair without closing my capacity for connection?

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

Jungian interpretation · Queen of Swords

Psychological lens: Experience can become wisdom when it informs a boundary rather than hardening into a judgement of everyone.

Future · King of Pentacles

Future

Original Card · K · King of Pentacles

Future

CARD CORRESPONDENCE Earth · Pentacles

SKY AT THIS READING No planetary placement assigned

Astrology: Earth · Pentacles · Earth

Court rank: King

King is a court role, not a numbered pip card: a directing, accountable expression of the suit's qualities. It can describe an approach or quality in anyone, without prescribing age or gender.

Stewardship Stability Competence

Position: Future - King of Pentacles. This suggests a possible development involving stewardship, stability, competence. Notice which present choices encourage that direction and which could change it; this is a possibility, not a fixed result.

Use experience and resources to create dependable conditions for yourself and others. Mature stewardship values maintenance, fair responsibility and a result that can last beyond a single achievement.

Looking closer: A king rests with a pentacle and sceptre amid vines, bull imagery and a substantial estate.

Tao / Wu Wei · King of Pentacles

A practice of unforced attention with King of Pentacles: How can I use what I have built to create lasting, shared stability?

Jungian interpretation · King of Pentacles

Psychological lens: Material authority develops when competence serves a wider responsibility rather than only defending an image of success.

The Golden Thread

The Golden Thread follows 5 revealed cards across this reading, including every clarifier. 3 cards came up reversed and are read through their reversed meaning.

Past Two of Cups + The Magician, reversed + Nine of Swords, reversed

The original Two of Cups highlights mutuality and connection; The Magician, reversed introduces manipulation and scattered will; Nine of Swords, reversed introduces support and easing anxiety. Consider whether these energies support one another or ask for balance.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Two of Cups (Water · Cups) meets The Magician, reversed (Mercury) meets Nine of Swords, reversed (Air · Swords). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Present Queen of Swords, reversed

The foundation is harsh judgement and bitterness; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are Queen of Swords, reversed (Air · Swords). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

Future King of Pentacles

The foundation is stewardship and stability; clarifiers can deepen this interpretation.

The astrological correspondences in dialogue are King of Pentacles (Earth · Pentacles). These may suggest qualities in yourself, a situation, or another person's influence; they do not establish someone's zodiac sign.

FROM CARD TO CARD

The reading begins with Two of Cups in Past and moves toward King of Pentacles in Future.

Present · Queen of Swords, reversed. Following Two of Cups, Queen of Swords may draw your attention toward harsh judgement.

Future · King of Pentacles. Following Queen of Swords, King of Pentacles may draw your attention toward stewardship.

The card-to-card movement is the heart of this reading: Two of Cups opens the question, and King of Pentacles shows where that pattern may be heading if the present choices continue.

Keep the part that speaks to your lived situation, and use the cards as a prompt for reflection and choice.

THE OVERALL INVITATION Across these cards, mutuality, connection, agreement, manipulation form the central pattern. Which part speaks to your present circumstances, and what choice might help you respond? This is a perspective, not a fixed prediction.

Numbers through your reading

Two of Cups (2) · The Magician (1) · Nine of Swords (9) · Queen of Swords (Queen) · King of Pentacles (King) . Their numbered cards sum to 12 , reducing to 3 . No opening dice were rolled for this reading.

These numbers are symbolic prompts, not guarantees. Notice whether any patterns resonate with numbers personally meaningful to you.

Take what resonates, and leave the rest.

© 2026 RESONATE. All rights reserved. For personal reflection.